1. Beginning in the middle of August 1951, a wave of new deportations has taken place in Lithuania.
2. The action has taken the form of deportation in batches, that is, the removal of several families at a time from one place. Nine families, for example, were deported from Druskininkai (54-01N, 23-58E), twelve families from south-west of Kaunas, eight families from Prienai (54-38N, 23-57E), and several families (number not specified) were deported from Kaunas.
3. It is evident that a sort of purge is being carried out among the collective farms, as it appears that members of the kolkhoz population are made to denounce the alleged kulaks among them and "to demand" their removal. These kulaks are now being deported. 1/
4. There are also indications that these deportations form part of a drive against those who sympathized with, or gave aid to, the partisans.

- 1/ Comment: Independent information has been received of the "screening" tactics employed against kulaks as described here.

FDD Abstract of

GDR NONFERROUS METALS IMPORTS (170 pp; German; 1951)

25X1X

This report consists of 170 photostated pages of the 1951 "Commission Book 9", which,

It contains data on GDR imports of nonferrous metals.

25X1X

Most pages of the account book are arranged in the following manner:

Name and address of the foreign supplier; contract number and date; quantity and description of the product imported; unit price and total contract amount; name and address of the final consignee; "H.A." number; delivery date; delivery order identification; manner of payment (cash, barter, clearing, etc.).

The account columns for all ledger sheets are headed as follows:

Notice of shipment ☒ presumably by the GDR importer to the final consignee: shipping date; name and address of the final consignee or railroad car number; ☒ (In some cases the item imported is indicated in this column); quantity.

Notice of receipt ☒ presumably from the GDR importer: Date of receipt; receiving final consignee; quantity; cumulative quantity.

Bills: Date; DAHA amount; final consignee amount.

The individual account sheets record actual quantities and types of goods received from named foreign suppliers, the price of goods, delivery date, and other pertinent data as indicated above. The third column (Bills) is not very meaningful without more complete data. The figures furnished in this column are, in practically all cases, ^{bulk}totally unrelated to the price-quantity figures furnished for the shipments and orders. These ~~figures~~ may perhaps indicate balances due, freight charges or the like. The "Bill" figures should not be utilized without securing additional information as to their meaning.

The GDR imports listed include such items as Straits tin, soldering tin; aluminum sheet, rhodium, tantalum sheet, nickel, chromium, metallurgical soft lead, etc.

A number of ledger sheets headed "Spezifikation" furnish specifications for some products if such information is not included in the actual account sheet.

The last 5 pages apparently constitute an import order register where each order is entered at the time when it is placed. This register contains the following information: Consecutive number; contract number; quantity (in kilogram); item imported; name and address of the foreign supplier (~~from~~ Soviet Orbit and Western). This consolidated list does not take into consideration partial or complete cancellations of orders.
